Hello Again!

Our first senior in the building after 18 months was Mr. Clark Lazore! We couldn’t be happier to see everyone back. We had a pretty big response of 50 guests for congregate on the first day. So big that it might have scared everyone away because we only have about 5-8 for lunch every day since. Everyone is at a different comfort level and we respect that. That’s why we have congregate, Grab-n-Go, and Home delivered Meals.

Building Improvements!!!
Yes, we have fresh coats of paint in the entry hallway, Giselle’s office and the lounge. We also got new boards that are updated daily with the lunch menu and activities for the week. Along with a new and improved waiting room, we cleared all of the clutter! The lounge has brand new furniture that was donated from the Tribe’s former Recovery Center (along with the pool table). Come and check it out for yourself!

Legal Aid with Linda LaRue

Paralegal Linda LaRue from Canton is back taking appointments in our Sunroom. Call our Administrative Assistant Giselle to book an appointment at (518)358-2963. Linda is scheduled to be at the Senior center twice a month, the second and fourth Thursday of the month (usually).

CHAIR YOGA!

Catherine Cook is back to teach Chair Yoga every Tuesday and Thursday at 10:00 a.m. in the Sunroom.

Chair yoga is a beneficial form of yoga for any fitness level, from active seniors to those recovering from an injury. It has low impact on joints and improves flexibility.

Please wear a mask in class if you are not vaccinated or not comfortable without one.
Tuesday, August 10, 2021: National S’more day! Katie made a s’more dip where she lined chocolate on the bottom of the pan, then marshmallows on top, placed into the oven for 15 minutes. Then we used the graham crackers to dip into the chocolate and marshmallows for a sweet treat.

Friday, August 20th was two holidays, National Lemonade Day and National Senior Citizens Day. So we played pool and life-size connect four and drank lavender lemonade. The lemonade was donated by local business Karahkwase Moon located at the four corners in Hogansburg. Everyone was able to get their own glass jar of lemonade and different recipes of lemonade made in their shop.

August 24th was National Waffle Day. Joy made waffle bows and added vanilla yogurt, blueberries, strawberries and raspberries. It was So good. We also had wrapped waffle snacks for folks to take home and add to whatever treat they would like.

August 19, 2021: National Ice Cream Day! We had 8 elders come in. For dessert we officered them raspberry, chocolate sundae, or vanilla lactose ice cream on a cone.
August Craft:
Bushel Basket Lid Wreath

Our first in-class craft class went great. Diane Boots and Nancy Oakes had a great time creating beautiful wooden wreaths.

September Craft:
Pumpkin Quilted Homespun Coaster

Date: Wednesday, September 22, 2021
Time: 12:45 p.m.

Doesn't everyone need a cute raggedy homespun plaid pumpkin coaster to sit that steamy mug of apple cider on? These little cuties can be whipped up in just an hour or so and will add a delightful little "detail" to your fall holiday decorating. Or make several and tie them up in some jute string as a thoughtful handmade gift set to keep on hand during the fall months.

Limited seating to 6 people, snacks will be provided. Please call Joy to reserve your seat at (518)358-2963. If you do reserve a seat and something comes up, please inform us that you can’t make it because we always have a waiting list. Nia:wen.

How to talk to your friends and family about COVID-19 vaccines

Tips for handling tough conversations with your loved ones.

Vaccines save 2 to 3 million lives each year and are amongst the greatest advances of modern medicine.

The development of safe and effective COVID-19 vaccines is a huge step forward in our global effort to end the pandemic.

This is exciting news, but there are still some people who are skeptical or hesitant about COVID-19 vaccines. Chances are you know a person who falls into this category – maybe among your group of friends or in your family.

If you are unsure of how to approach conversations about vaccines with vaccine skeptics you know, you’re not alone. We spoke to Dr. Saad Omer, Director at the Yale Institute for Global Health, about the do’s and don’ts of navigating these difficult discussions.

Do connect with their values.

Even if you are feeling frustrated, it is important to be empathetic. “Make them feel heard,” advises Omer. Attempt to connect with their underlying sentiment. For example, if they are tired of being kept from doing the things they want to do because of COVID-19, connect with them on the fact that places they enjoy will begin to open up again if we are all vaccinated against the disease. He suggests talking about COVID-19 and how devastating it has been. If you only speak about vaccines “it’s not a full picture, and has somewhat lower chances of succeeding,” he explains. When the discussion comes back to COVID-19, it places the focus on the trade-offs we have all had to make such as physically distancing ourselves from loved ones and missing out on normal daily activities.

Don’t interrupt.

Make sure not to cut off, speak over or jump into correcting your loved one. Listen to the person you are talking to and meet them where they are. “You shouldn’t agree with any false information, but you should empathize and continue the process rather than ending your relationship or ending the conversation,” says Omer.

Do help them feel empowered.

Right now, many people are scared. The pandemic has completely transformed our lives. Omer suggests giving your loved one an empowering message: You can do something about this disease. Remind them that they can help change their own trajectory and their loved ones’ trajectories in this pandemic by getting vaccinated. “[They] can do something about it. These vaccines work.”

Don’t focus on the myths.
“Be careful about countering a misperception too directly,” says Omer. The discussion shouldn’t be all or mostly about addressing a specific myth because there will always be more myths that follow. Calling attention to a myth can also backfire by making the myth more memorable than the facts. But sometimes, you cannot get out of addressing misinformation. If you find yourself in that position, Omer suggests the following approach: fact, warning, fallacy, fact. Here’s how it works:

- Start with the fact. COVID-19 vaccines are extremely safe and effective.
- Warn before the myth is coming. Say, “there is misinformation about_____.”
- Mention the fallacy (myth) that you are addressing.
- End with the fact. Show why the myth is not true.

The most important thing is to “replace the misinformation with the correct information,” explains Omer.

Do assume they are going to get vaccinated.
Simply say to your friend or family member, “Let’s go get vaccinated!” This method is called presumptive communication. “The announcement approach or presumptive approach has been shown to be successful in the clinic and is likely to work in personal communication,” says Omer. You’re not taking away someone’s autonomy, all you are doing is establishing a verbal default.

Don’t get discouraged.
Convincing someone who is opposed to vaccines is a long process. “It’s extremely tough,” says Omer. Remember that for those who are strongly opposed to vaccines in general, their opinions will not likely be changed in one conversation. The important thing? “Maintain a connection with them.”

August Trip to Malone Fair

We went to the fair on Thursday for senior day. We almost cancelled because of possible thunderstorms; but we went anyway and it turned out to be a really nice day. We ate junk food, walked around and played bingo, just what the Dr ordered!

NO DONATIONS

We are so excited to have our seniors back in the building. We have been getting organized and working on building updates. At this time we are not accepting donations such as books, puzzles, clothes, decorations. We do not have the space at the moment. Nia:wen/

Our First Birthday Party in 18 months!

August 25th we celebrated our August Birthday people. The activities department decorated, we had spaghetti for lunch and birthday cake for dessert. Activity coordinator Katie read allowed the Birthday list and we all sang Happy Birthday to our 5 birthday honoree's that came in for lunch. Of course we had to put them in silly hats and glasses to take a picture. They also received a birthday card from the staff and 3 lunch certificates to come back for lunch. Birthday meals are celebrated the last Wednesday of every month. Please come in if it’s your Birthday!
